PROJECT GOAL: To raise awareness among students, teachers and educators for interdisciplinary learning and teaching by finding solutions to environmental problems with innovative approaches and methods.

PROJECT SUMMARY: With the learning/teaching/training activities in the project, teachers and students will be able to show that technology is not only a separate area to be taught or learned individually, but also a living area that is present in all areas of life. The project will help students develop intercultural knowledge, teamwork, autonomy and will also increase the motivation of both students and teachers in their further work. In addition, the project aims to improve the foreign language knowledge of teachers and students, to increase respect for the values of other cultures, and to disseminate good experiences and innovative approaches internationally.
